New high-efficiency narrow-band spectral-broadening gratings (SBGs) are proposed based on resonant total internal reflection (TIR) gratings. The simulations show that the bandwidth of the SBGs is dominated by the surface plasmon dispersion relation. Furthermore, a simple structure to enhance the light-matter interaction efficiency in the SBGs is introduced, which is achieved by placing a dielectric layer of high refractive index at the top of the grating region. The numerical results suggest that the light-matter interaction efficiency in the SBG can be largely increased.

Flat Top Lake Flat Top Lake is a reservoir in Tonawanda in Erie County in the U.S. state of New York. It is situated on the Tonawanda Creek. The lake is situated in Tonawanda Creek Park. There are two marinas on the lake, one with two boat ramps (one of which is handicapped accessible) and another with three boat ramps.

boaters: New boat launch facility coming to Flat Top Lake - Buffalo News. Category:Reservoirs in New York (state) Category:Reservoirs in Erie County, New YorkQ: mongodb aggregate, $match, count() I have a collection called mycollection. It's contents are represented in the following format: _id: objectid, name: String, category: String I'm trying to do a count() over the number of records that match a certain category in this collection. Here's my query that I have:

collection.aggregate( [ { $match: { category: "some_category" } }, {

`$count: "num_records" }])` The problem with the query above is that the `$match` option only works on a single record. In this case, it would only return the record that matches the category `some_category`. Is there any way to rewrite this query to return a `count()` over all the entries that match the category? A: This seems to be exactly what you want:

collection.aggregate( [ {
```
